

The University of Jordan

School of Engineering

Department of Architecture Engineering

MSc. Architecture Engineering

The course has not been introduced before.

0932734	Landscape of built environment	3 credit hours
---------	--------------------------------	----------------

This course is a study of contemporary cultural and behavioral influences on design and planning of out-door spaces. Comparative studies on design of public spaces, community gathering places, and recreational areas, parks, and beaches in urban environment. The importance of ecological factors on design of the built environment. Analytical study of advanced models urban landscape sites an Arab World and international countries. A modern approach to landscape practice in Jordan.