Mechanical Engineering	Finite Elements Methods in Aerospace Structures	0994507
2025 Course Catalog Description
Introduction to the advanced matrix methods in treating aerospace structures. Static analysis of wing, fuselage, and rocket structures. Stability and large displacement of ribs, stringers, and skins. Vibration of wing-fuselage combinations. Structural damping. Vibration of stretched or compressed wing panels.

ABET Student Outcomes (SOs)
1	An ability to identify, formulate, and solve complex engineering problems by applying principles of engineering, science, and mathematics
2	An ability to apply engineering design to produce solutions that meet specified needs with consideration of public health, safety, and welfare, as well as global, cultural, social, environmental, and economic factors
3	An ability to communicate effectively with a range of audiences
4	An ability to recognize ethical and professional responsibilities in engineering situations and make informed judgments, which must consider the impact of engineering solutions in global, economic, environmental, and societal contexts
5	An ability to function effectively on a team whose members together provide leadership, create a collaborative and inclusive environment, establish goals, plan tasks, and meet objectives
6	An ability to develop and conduct appropriate experimentation, analyze and interpret data, and use engineering judgment to draw conclusions
7	An ability to acquire and apply new knowledge as needed, using appropriate learning strategies
